Hiring desk

Fill interview times with people who will actually come.

You already get applications from Indeed, Craigslist, or Facebook. The hard part is what happens next. You hold a time, and a lot of people never arrive. The ones you wanted often take another job while they wait.

Hiring desk is a private page for your company. You share a link. People who fit the job get the soonest time you already posted, and they have to tap to keep it. When you hire someone, they get the same team invite you already send.

> Add tomorrow's times before you share the link. If you have not added any times, everyone who passes has to wait on you.

HOW YOU USE IT

1. Open Hiring
   It is in the left menu, next to Employees. Owners and admins have it. On Business and Pro you can also give a custom role View hiring or Manage hiring.

2. Create an opening
   Name the job. Mark it Field or Office. Add the city, the pay, and the days. Choose a phone call, a meeting at your office, or a paid shadow.

3. Add times
   Put real start times on the next few days. One person per time. Clean Scheduler will not pick a time for you.

4. Share the link
   Paste it into the job post you already use, or into your own site. The page is not listed on the Clean Scheduler website.

5. Mark what happened
   On each person, tap Showed, No-show, Not a fit, or Hire.

WHAT YOU FILL IN

The link stays off until pay, days, and city are filled in. People always see what the job pays and which days it is.

Title	The job name they see.
Kind	Field or Office.
Interview	Phone call, In the office, or Paid shadow.
Pay	Your words, such as “$18–$22/hour to start.” Clean Scheduler does not calculate pay.
Days and hours	Such as “Weekdays, 8:00–3:00.”
City or area	Such as “Palm Bay.”
Time to confirm	Starts at 3 hours. You can set it from 30 minutes to 24 hours. If the interview is sooner than that, their chance to keep it ends 30 minutes before the start.

A paid shadow is a short tryout you pay yourself. Type where to meet and what you will pay for that time. The person does not get a login. Those hours are not added to payroll in Clean Scheduler, and the person is not put on a customer visit.

WHAT THEY SEE

Your company name and logo. The job, the city, the pay, the days, and how you will meet. They enter their name, email, and mobile phone. They answer yes or no. They can add one note, “Anything we should know?” You can read it. It is not scored.

They check a box that says your company may email them about this application only, that your company is the employer, and that Clean Scheduler delivers the message and does not hire them.

For a phone call or an office meeting, type the number you will call from, or your office address. That note is included in the email. Leave customer names, home addresses, and alarm codes out of it.

THE QUESTIONS

You turn these on or off. You cannot type your own. “Are you 18 or older?” always stays on.

Are you 18 or older?	Always on
Do you have reliable transportation to the job?	On for field jobs
Do you accept the pay shown above?	On. You can turn it off
Can you work the days and hours shown above?	On. You can turn it off
Are you willing to complete a background check before working in customer homes?	On for field jobs
Are you authorized to work in the United States?	Off until you turn it on

An office opening starts with transportation and the background-check question turned off. Pay and days start on for every opening. Work authorization starts off.

If they answer No to a question you require, the list says Screened out. They get a short email that names what they missed, and they do not get a time. Tap Move forward if you still want to talk to them.

AFTER THEY APPLY

They pass, and a time is open

They get an email from your company right away, with your logo, for the earliest time. They open the link, then tap a button to keep it. Opening the email is not enough. If they do not tap in time, that time goes to the next person who is Waiting. Someone who declines, or someone you mark No-show, is not offered this opening again.

They pass, and every time is taken

The list says Waiting. They get an email that you will send a time. You get an email that says how many people are waiting. Add a time, and the person who has been waiting longest gets it.

The morning of the interview

They get another email with the time and the meeting note. It does not go out before 7:00 in your time zone. After the start time, they stay on Confirmed until you tap Showed or No-show. Clean Scheduler will not mark a no-show for you.

You can see how many people applied, were screened out, confirmed, showed, and did not show. The show-up rate appears after at least five people have confirmed. You also see how many applicants showed up, out of everyone who applied.

Cancel time emails them and puts them back on Waiting. Resend confirm sends the link again. Delete data removes the name, email, and phone. Every email they get has a withdraw link that removes those same details. Closing an opening stops new applications and emails anyone already confirmed that the interview is canceled.

WHEN YOU HIRE

Hire fills in the team invite you already send, with their name, email, and a field or office role. They still need an open seat on your plan. If you are out of seats, the hire stops and they stay on Showed.

Until they accept the invite, they cannot sign in and they are not on the schedule. People in the field do not see the applicant list. You tell the lead who they are meeting.

The same email or phone on the same opening updates that application instead of creating a second one. If they apply to another opening, you will see that they did. Someone who applied on Indeed and never used your link can be sent the same form. Enter their name, phone, and email. You cannot skip the form and count them as a pass.

WHICH PLANS INCLUDE IT

Business

Hiring desk is included.

5 openings at once.

Email from your company.

Pro

Hiring desk is included.

25 openings at once.

Email from your company.

Applicant email uses your company name, logo, and reply-to address. It does not use your campaign email credits. Only openings set to Open count toward the limit of 5 or 25. Drafts and closed openings do not.

Starter does not include Hiring desk. The free trial does not include it either.

YOUR COMPANY IS THE EMPLOYER

> Clean Scheduler keeps the list and sends the email. It does not find applicants, place workers, or charge a placement fee. You set the pay. You decide who to hire. You pay a shadow yourself. If you use a background check, you run it. The form does not ask for a Social Security number or a date of birth.

> Start here. Open Hiring. Create the opening. Add two times for tomorrow. Copy the link into the job post you already use.
